GOP Says State Aid Must Drop To Lower Budget

Plan Devised as More Satisfactory Than Two Per Cent Sales Tax; Albany Prepares for Huge Throngs

Heck Asks Action

Assembly Speaker to Request Minor Bills Be Cleared for Major Measures

Albany, N. Y., Feb. 20 (AP)—Reduction in state aid to offset necessity of a proposed $26,000,000 real estate tax was regarded by Republican legislative leaders today as the most likely method of slashing New York's record-high budget for 1939-40.

Devised as the Capitol prepared for one of its largest "mass protest" meetings at the budget hearing next Wednesday, the plan was looked upon by many party chieftains as "more satisfactory" than the move for a two per cent sales tax.

While comparatively few protests, they said, have been received against the remainder of Governor Lehman's $64,000,000 new tax program to help finance his $11,682,122 budget, the objections to the executive's proposed real estate levy of $1 on every $1,000 of assessed valuation were termed "overwhelming."

Other Activities
Other legislative activities included:

Preparations for accommodations of representatives of local and state organizations who have notified legislators they would come to the budget hearing by special trains, buses and motorcoaches to protest proposed new levies.

Recommendation for creation of a legislative commission to study and suggest revision of municipal finance laws declared in "chaotic condition."

Decision by Assembly Speaker Oswald D. Heck to request Republican chairman of legislative committee to report out assembly budget bill immediately to "clear the track" for action on major measures.

Crossings Measure

Scheduling by an Assembly committee of favorable action on a Senate-approved bill which would implement a constitutional amendment decreasing the railroad cost of grade crossing elimination projects from 50 per cent to a 15 per cent maximum.

Although awaiting specific recommendations for budget reductions at the Wednesday hearing, some leaders conceded that a $26,000,000 reduction in the proposed $211,890,610 for state aid would permit elimination of the real estate tax and still leave a balanced budget.

This move, however, would still leave two other proposed new levies, a tax on business turnover at the rate of two-tenths of one per cent estimated to yield $30,000,000, and an increase in the excise tax on liquors from $1 to $1.50 a gallon estimated to yield $8,000,000.

No particular item in the groups designated to receive state aid have been selected as yet as the target for the suggested $26,000,000 slash, one leader said, although he pointed out that proportionate cuts could be made in all the appropriations including $22,610 for county health units and laboratories, $5,421,000 for town and county highways, and $79,000,000 for social welfare.

Meanwhile, other legislators asserted there was "strong senti-

'Democratic War'

Ciano's Newspaper Says FDR Heads Minority Starting U. S. Toward War

Rome, Feb. 20 (AP)—Foreign Minister Count Galeazzo Ciano's newspaper, Il Tevere, charged today that an "imperialistic, plutocratic minority" of American leaders, headed by President Roosevelt, was starting the United States toward a "democratic war."

Giovanni Ansaldo, in the paper's leading editorial, wrote that the "arming of American minds, even more dangerous than enormous material armaments," failed to impress Italians.

Franco Plans New Government of 8 Cabinet Ministers

Generalissimo Will Keep His Title as Chief of State and Will Name Brother-in-law as Premier

Perpignan, France (near the Spanish frontier) Feb. 20 (AP)—Nationalist Generalissimo Francisco Franco was said today by informed border sources to plan naming a new government of eight cabinet ministers under the nominal direction of his brother-in-law, Serrano Sunner, as premier.

The generalissimo, these sources said, will retain his title as chief of state and supreme commander of the army.

Franco has filled most of the posts on paper, these reports declared, but the actual change may not take place before the central zone of Spain is occupied. Sunner is presently minister of interior and one of the outstanding leaders of the Falangists (Fascists). He has been working publicly in the Nationalist government a little more than a year.

In New Cabinet

The new cabinet, these reports said, will include General Francisco Gomez Jordana, now Franco's foreign minister, and Ramon Fernandez Cuesta, minister of agriculture, as ministers of state without portfolio.

General Fidel Davila, the present war minister, was said to be slated for the position of captain general and inspector general of the land, sea and air forces.

General Antonio Aranda or General Jose Moscarda, it was said, might replace him as war minister.

Other ministers, these reports said, may be as follows:

Navy, Admiral Baratch; justice, Count de Rodezno or another representative of the old Carlist Party; finance, a follower of Jose Maria Gil Robles, former minister of war and leader of popular Agrarians; interior, a civilian appointee, aided by Colonel Ungria, present head of the department of public order in the Nationalist capital of Burgos.

The cabinet would be limited to eight ministers and other departments would be turned into under-secretaries.

Negotiations Break

Paris, Feb. 20 (AP)—French negotiations with Generalissimo Francisco Franco for peace in Spain and for recognition of his Nationalist regime have been suspended abruptly.

The conversations struck a snag at the Nationalists' Burgos headquarters last night when Franco's delegates ruled that only unconditional surrender of Republican Spain or final victory for Nationalist arms could end the civil war.

The French mission had been instructed to seek a promise of leniency toward the Republican side as well as assurances that Spain would be rid of Italian and German forces as a basis of the recognition of Franco which it hoped would bring peace.

Sensor Leon Berard, French emissary to Nationalist Spain, decided to go to San Sebastian today and cross the frontier into France later to confer with Sir Robert H. Hodgson, British commercial agent in Nationalist Spain, and ask fresh instructions from Paris.

Advices said there would be no further talks at Burgos before Wednesday.

An assurance against reprisals by the Nationalists was said to be all the Republican side asked before giving up the unequal struggle.

May Become Citizen

Hollywood, Feb. 20 (AP)—Freddie Bartholomew, English born child star of American films, soon may become an American. Miss Mylicent Bartholomew, his aunt and legal guardian, today said she plans to apply at once for her citizenship papers. Freddie, 14, automatically would become a citizen with her naturalization.

Andrews Predicts Wider Use Of 'Guaranteed Wage' Plan

Washington, Feb. 20 (AP)—Wage-hour Administrator Elmer F. Andrews predicted today that wider use of "guaranteed annual wage" contracts by seasonal industries might result from the fair labor standards act.

A guaranteed annual wage contract is one under which employees are paid on an annual or semi-annual basis. Under the wage-hour act such employees cannot be required to work more than 1,600 hours in six months or more than 2,000 hours in one year.

Andrews based his prediction on a formal memorandum prepared by Calvert Magruder, general counsel for the wage-hour division, interpreting two sections of the law. The memorandum was intended to serve, Magruder said, as a guide to the administrator unless the courts direct otherwise.

Tragedy Marks Perkins' Visit

Secretary of Labor Perkins' inspection trip to Granger, Ia., homestead project was marred when Bonnie Sparks, 8, daughter of homesteaders, was struck by auto in excitement of the cabinet member's arrival. This was the pathetic scene as Miss Perkins rushed to the side of Warren Allen, driver of the auto, as he picked up the little girl. Both legs were broken, her head gashed. A younger sister watches from background.

Transport Union Fights Wicks Bill Despite Changes

Quill Says Measure Still Has 'All Inherent Viciousness of Original Union-Busting Bill'; No Parleys

The Transport Workers Union of America has announced that it will continue its opposition to the Wicks transit labor bill despite amendments to the bill introduced in Albany Thursday by its author, Senator Arthur H. Wicks, Republican of this city.

Michael J. Quill, international president of the T. W. U., said the amended Wicks measure still contained "all the inherent viciousness of the original union-busting bill."

"Despite Senator Wicks' amendments the bill still fails to provide any guarantee of continued employment for the 29,000 men and women presently employed on the I. R. T. and B. M. T. subway, elevated, trolley and bus lines," Mr. Quill said. "Further, it makes no provision for the retention of these workers' pension rights and leaves to the discretion of appointed officials the questions and job classifications, foreshadowing wage cuts for thousands of transit workers."

"Senator Wicks' amending the bill is an admission of the wickedness of the original bill. Like the original, the amendments were formulated without consultation with the Transport Workers' Union, the duly organized representative of the men and women whose jobs are at stake in this legislation."

"The Wicks bill is still, under the pretense of extending civil service, aimed at the destruction of genuine collective bargaining for New York's transit workers."

"The Transport Workers Union will continue to campaign for defeat of the Wicks bill and demand that legislation affecting the operation of the pending unified transit lines be left to the city council and the board of estimate of the city of New York, where it rightfully belongs in accordance with the recent home rule amendment to the state constitution."

"The transit workers in this city are confident that in this fight against the Wicks bill they will be able to establish over long years of meritorious and competent service to the people of the city of New York they will continue to have the support of the hundreds of organizations whose resolutions condemning the Wicks bill. These organizations include affiliates of the C. I. O., the A. F. of L., American Legion, Veterans of Foreign Wars, Catholic War Veterans, the Knights of Columbus, Holy Name Society, Irish and Italian-American organizations, Democratic, Republican and American Labor Party clubs and church, civic, fraternal and small businessmen's organizations."

Rodriguez, considered one of the president's staunchest friends and supporters, escorted Benavides to Callao Saturday when a party of government officials boarded a naval transport for a three-day holiday. He embraced the president and wished him a happy trip.

The president hurried back to Lima when advised of the attempted coup, and called a special cabinet meeting. Premier Brigadier General Ernesto Montagne took what were called the "most urgent" precautions although Lima residents, beginning their carnival season in summer heat, remained calm. A communique by Montagne said a normal situation was restored and that "some few insurgents lost their lives."

Civil War Veteran Gets His Insurance

Seattle, Feb. 19 (AP)—Brigham Buswell, 36, and still very much alive, has just collected $750 on his own life insurance.

The extremely rare occurrence, Hans O. Clasen, state agent for the company said, places Buswell in the insurance "hall of fame" along with the late John D. Rockefeller, also one of the few ever to collect on his own straight-life policy.

Buswell, a Union Army veteran of the Civil War, took out the policy sixty-five years ago.

"Insurance rules, Clasen explained, "are based on the American experience table of mortality, which assumes that out of a group of 100,000 persons starting at the age of 10, only three will reach the age of 95, and that at 96 all will be dead."

Bullets Put End To One-Man Coup At Peru's Capital

General Rodriguez Is Killed by Sergeant-Major Yesterday While President Is on Way to Europe

Lima, Peru, Feb. 20 (AP)—A short-lived attempt by Interior Minister General Antonio Rodriguez to seize the government in the absence of his old friend, President Oscar Benavides, was ended yesterday by bullets.

General Rodriguez was killed by Sergeant-Major Rizo Parrou who challenged Rodriguez' assertions that he was the chief executive for Europe. One police officer, two patrolmen and a Japanese pedestrian were reported killed and 36 persons wounded in the brief fighting that followed.

The attempted coup d'etat occurred about 2 a. m. yesterday when the general seized the presidential palace, proclaimed himself head of the government and issued manifestos explaining his plans for far-reaching measures to replace the Benavides administration. Rodriguez ordered Captain Isomides, chief of the machine-gun section quartered at the palace, to relinquish the command to a new chief.

Mismodes, pretending to follow the orders, telephoned presidential quarters for troops, locked himself in a tower and trained machine-guns on the palace entrance until soldiers arrived to assure strategic positions about the palace.

Rodriguez' death at the hands of Rizo Parrou, leader of the first troops to arrive, apparently ended the movement. A few officers and retired General Cirilo Ortega were associated with Rodriguez, a communique said.

Rodriguez, considered one of the president's staunchest friends and supporters, escorted Benavides to Callao Saturday when a party of government officials boarded a naval transport for a three-day holiday. He embraced the president and wished him a happy trip.

Hulbert Considers O. & W. Affairs at New York Hearing

Mayor Heiselman and County Attorney Elsworth Attend Session to Cite Problem of Assessed Valuation

Whether the New York Ontario & Western Railway is to be supplied with new capital to enable it to continue operations or whether its affairs shall be liquidated is being considered today at a hearing before Murray Hulbert, U. S. District Judge, at the United States Court House in New York city.

Mayor C. J. Heiselman is representing the city of Kingston and County Attorney Roscoe V. Elsworth the county, at the hearing.

If the railroad should discontinue operations it would mean a loss of $42,750 in assessed valuation to the city. It is understood that during the past eight years the assessment has been materially reduced in an effort to assist the railroad to continue.

When the Kingston branch of the O & W was first placed in operation it did a considerable freight and passenger business but with the growth of bus lines and the increase in ownership of automobiles passenger service gradually decreased.

At the present time the O & W here has no passenger service during the winter months, and but little passenger service in the summer. What business is carried on the Kingston branch during the winter is exclusively freight, including coal.

The future of the O & W will depend largely on the outcome of the hearing in New York today. One of the questions to be discussed is the possibility of the railroad being reinducted with federal funds.

At the hearing today representatives of various communities in the Rondout Valley who are served by the railroad are attending. At a meeting last week in Middletown Judge Russell Wiggins of Middletown was selected as spokesman for the Orange county group.

Heiser Reported as Still In Serious Condition

Robert Heiser of Tannersville, fireman overcome by smoke last week at the blaze which destroyed several buildings in the business center of the village, is still reported in a serious but improved condition at Sabler's Sanitarium in this city, where he was brought from the Tannersville Hospital.

Treasury Receipts

Washington, Feb. 20 (AP)—The position of the treasury February 17: Receipts, $11,782,508.46; expenditures, $26,127,304.00; net balance, $3,439,169,452.25, including $2,790,726,076.92 working balance; customs receipts for the month, $13,803,442.84. Receipts for the fiscal year (since July 1) $3,568,846,500.20; expenditures, $5,667,511,891.64, including $1,920,250,625.58 of emergency expenditures; excess of expenditures, $2,101,665,392.44; gross debt, $39,801,454,198.74, an increase of $874,645.13 above the previous day; gold assets, $14,815,171,144.86.

Georgetown, British Guiana, Feb. 20 (Canadian Press)—Members of a commission investigating possibilities for settlement of Jewish refugees from Germany and Central Europe have returned after an airplane survey of an area 50 miles up the Demerara river, south of Georgetown.

Naval Air Base Bill Speeds Toward Vote With House Debate Limited to 6 Hours

Three Are Hurt Badly Early Sunday on 9-W At By-Pass; Man Held

Herbert Van Nostrand, Who Suffers Possible Spine Fracture, Arrested by Harold Boyce as Reckless Driver

Three persons sustained severe injuries in an auto collision about 4 o'clock Sunday morning near the Travis Kennels at the intersection of Route 9-W and the East Chestnut street by-pass.

The injured are Herbert Van Nostrand, 32, of Brooklyn, who suffered a possible spine fracture and a deep laceration over the left eye; his companion, Catharine McGrath of Brooklyn, owner of the car which Van Nostrand was driving and who was bruised about the chest and sustained numerous lacerations and bruises about the body generally; Evelyn Wagonbough of Catskill, who was treated at the Kingston Hospital for a badly bruised and cut lip and the loss of two teeth. Miss Wagonbough was riding in a car driven by Harold Boyce of 23 Furnace street, Kingston. Boyce was unhurt as was William Bush of New York city, the latter a passenger in the car driven by Van Nostrand.

Deputy Sheriffs McCullough and Brown found that the accident apparently was caused when the Van Nostrand car, being driven toward Kingston, skidded, or for some other reason swung around so that the rear end struck the radiator and left side of the Boyce car, which was on its way to Catskill. The officers say that when they arrived on the scene the occupants of the Van Nostrand car had been taken away.

Later in the day Boyce swore out a warrant charging Van Nostrand with reckless driving. The deputies located Van Nostrand and Miss McGrath at the Twobig home in Eddyville, where they had been taken following the accident. Justice John Watkins of East Kingston went to Eddyville and held Van Nostrand under $25 bail for a hearing on Tuesday.

Van Nostrand, Bush and Miss McGrath had come to Eddyville to attend the wedding Saturday of Marie Twobig and John J. McGrath.

City Basks in 64 Degree Weather

February Presents Preview of Spring Fever; Unopened Gutters Hinder Drainage

With temperatures recording a high of 64 degrees above zero at noon today the city was in the grip of a February thaw which began Sunday when rain fell during the day, and mild temperatures prevailed.

With the curbs banked with snow a foot or more high in many of the streets melting snow was unable to find its way into the sewers as the gutters were not opened. As a result many side walks were under water, while both streets and walks were a glare of ice.

The Board of Public Works has been kept busy sanding many of the dangerous street intersections and hills, but the running water has washed off much of the sand, making resanding necessary.

The Hudson river is still ice-locked off Kingston Point and no attempt has been made to open a channel for the ferry. The rain and milder temperature is softening up the ice in both the river and the creek, and if mild temperatures continue it is expected that the ice fields will begin soon to break.

False Alarm of Fire

Saturday afternoon at 3:43 o'clock some one turned in a false alarm of fire from Box 62, Tremper avenue and Downs street, to which the fire department responded.

Valentine Assigns 1,500 Policemen To Duty at Garden

Extraordinary Measures Are Taken to Prevent Trouble Tonight at Pro-Nazi Rally; No Bombs Are Found

New York, Feb. 20 (AP)—Fifteen hundred policemen were assigned to Madison Square Garden by Police Commissioner Lewis J. Valentine today as extraordinary precautions were taken against any disorders at a pro-Nazi rally scheduled for tonight.

The officers were ordered to report at the Garden, a block from the Broadway theatrical district, at 4 p. m. They will augment a 24-hour guard of 16 men which has patrolled the big block-square arena since Saturday, when reports reached city hall that three time bombs had been secreted in the building. No bombs were found.

Ernest Rice, organizer of the New York local of the socialist Workers Party, labelled the bomb scare reports as "deliberate provocations by Fascists against contemplated anti-Fascist action."

Measure to Appropriate Fund of $53,800,000 Will Undergo Discussion Tomorrow; Group Indicates

Guam Big Issue

Seaplane Harbor at Guam Looms as One of Chief Points of Debate

Press 'Rides' F. D. R.

Berlin, Feb. 20 (AP)—The entire German Press struck at President Roosevelt today for reports that he might shorten his cruise in the Caribbean because of word reaching him of developments abroad.

All America, the press said, was excited by "new baiting by Peace-Disturber Roosevelt" and a "theatrical coup in Washington."

Nachtausgabe asked whether the president's "careless war gossip" was intended to push Europe into war to aid the American arms industry.

Washington, Feb. 20 (AP)—The $53,800,000 naval air base bill sped forward in Congress today—new evidence of a determination to bolster national defense.

The House rules committee decided unanimously to ask the House to start voting after six hours of general debate on the legislation. The chamber probably will begin debate tomorrow.

Chairman Vinson (D-Ga.) of the naval committee and Rep. Maas (R-Minn.), ranking minority member, said they would grant "ample time" for arguments of opponents of the $5,000,000 item for developing a seaplane harbor at Guam.

Presidential hints of threatening developments abroad acted as a damper on congressional controversy over American foreign policy, but there was no doubt the Guam project would be criticized.

Only Point of Controversy

Vinson told the rules committee the Guam item was the only controversial section of the 11-air base program. Even that, he said, constituted "no entering wedge" which might lead to actual fortification of the island.

"I wouldn't be here advocating development of Guam," he declared, "if I thought it would involve us in the Orient."

Administration senators found support from some Republican members in the contention that further dispute at this time should be avoided if possible. They acknowledged, however, that the foreign policy debate undoubtedly would break out when the senate takes up the $376,000,000 army expansion bill.

Sensor Austin (R-Vt.) declaring his party viewpoint was secondary to his patriotism, said a committee inquiry had convinced him that the administration's encouragement of French warplane purchases was not unneutral.

Austin said he believed the transaction, center of the foreign policy dispute, "tended to promote our capacity to produce airplanes needed under the armaments program."

Logan Concurrs

Sensor Logan (D-Ky.) concurred in this opinion, asserting that President Roosevelt did right in helping the French buy Douglas bombers manufactured for American army competition but not yet tested by the army.

"The President violated no

Weather Bureau Says City Would Get 65-Degree Day, But Colder Tuesday

New York, Feb. 20 (AP)—Over-coated New Yorkers perspired in a February "heat wave" today.

After a record-breaking high of 60 yesterday, the temperature rose to 62 at 10 a. m. today and the weather bureau predicted it would climb to 65 before nightfall. The normal temperature for this time of year is 30 degrees lower.

Rain and "much colder" was the forecast for tonight. Similar unseasonal conditions prevailed in several other upstate cities.

Windshifts at Buffalo brought sudden changes during the night. The temperature reached 54 at 9 p. m., fell to 34 by 11:30 p. m. and was back to 50 at 2 a. m. Two hours later the mercury had subsided to 35.

Forecast of much colder weather abated fears of floods in western New York where several rivers and creeks overflowed their banks.

McCall Execution Is Delayed Suddenly Until Next Friday

Tallahassee, Fla., Feb. 20 (AP)—The execution of Franklin Pierce McCall for the $10,000 ransom kidnapping and death of five year old James Bailey Cash, Jr., was delayed at the last minute today until next Friday.

A secretary said Governor Fred P. Cone in Jacksonville this morning arranged with State Prison Superintendent L. F. Chapman to set the execution later to give McCall's counsel time for an appeal to the United States Supreme Court.

The death warrant signed by the governor set the week of February 20 for McCall and two others to die. Superintendent Chapman fixed today for the execution. One of the three won a reprieve.

Financial and Commercial

Industrials Show Gain Saturday

In a market featured by light trading, particularly in the middle of the week, when speculative activity was practically at a standstill, changes from day to day were fractional.

The closing session Saturday, with transactions down to 409, 110 shares, showed industrial issues up 0.56 point for the day, to 145.51 in the Dow-Jones averages; rails advanced 0.24 point, to 30.55 and utilities gained 0.36 point, to 25.43. Compared with closing prices the previous Saturday, all classes of securities showed light gains for the week, industrials being up 0.90 point, rails 0.37 point and utilities 0.50 point. Wall Street is reported to be "mildly bullish" on the situation, being influenced by fairly favorable trade indications at present and the action of the London market of late, advances being scored for the last three days of the week. British statesmen are claiming that the outlook for business, including the political situation, is better and one official held that the British trade recession of the past two years or more has ended.

Commodity prices as a whole showed a gain for the week, with the rise in silk price a feature.

Agreement between the Brooklyn-Manhattan Transit Corp. and representatives of New York City on sale of the B. M. T. properties to the city is said to be near, with probability that a price for the system under unification will be announced before the end of the week. Expectation is that the deal will include purchase not only of the rapid transit lines, but also of the trolley and bus lines. A formal conference is to be held Thursday.

Net earnings reports include: Western Auto Supply, net in 1938 of $2,087,840, equal to $2.77 a share on 751,368 shares of $10 par common. In 1937 net was $2,475,176, or $3.29 a share. Electric Auto-Lite, net of $1,836,150, or $1.53 a share, vs. net of $4,206,614, or $3.43 a share; a dividend of 50 cents on common was declared. American News Co., 1938 net of $825,819, or $1.98 a share on common outstanding. Bigelow-Sanford Carpet net loss of $1,491,022, vs. net profit in 1937 of $562,612, but notes payable were reduced during 1938 from $5,200,000 to $950,000 and inventories were reduced from $13,482,126 to $8,570,643. Western Electric and subsidiaries had net of $5,734,033, or 36 cents a share, vs. net in 1937 of $19,514,197, or $3.25 a share; sales in 1938 were 14 per cent under the previous year and plants were operating at 42 per cent of capacity at the close of the year as against 67 per cent at the end of 1937.

CONDEMNED AND EXECUTIONER

Left is first picture of Franklin P. McCall, cash kidnaper, scheduled to die in the electric chair in Raiford, Fla. Prison, Friday, February 24. It was taken February 2, when he still hoped for new trial and puffed pipe complacently. Right, a study of Sheriff D. C. Coleman, made in his Miami office as he announced he personally would throw the switch at electrocution of McCall. (McCall picture—Copyright by Charles Ebbetts, Miami News).

Broad Street School Party

Allaben, Feb. 20.—A school party to which the community was invited was held at the Broad Street School Monday afternoon, February 14, to celebrate Valentine's Day and also the 89th birthday of Dan Robinson.

Mrs. Marshall Storey came to the party with a delicious birthday cake which she baked for Mr. Robinson's birthday. Mrs. Storey worked these words into the cake: "To Uncle Dan From the School, 1938." Mr. Robinson also received valentines, candy, birthday cards and the best birthday wishes of all present. Arthur Peck also presented Mr. Robinson a heart-shaped valentine cake.

Day Hand was present with a valentine surprise for each child. Mr. Hand gave each pupil in the school two valentine gifts.

Mrs. Thomas Meredith and Mrs. Ned Kelly also presented each pupil of the school with a valentine box.

Mrs. John Swinson, who is an author of child's stories, delighted the pupils and also the grown-ups with a story, "Kala," dedicated to Kala Robinson, a pupil of the school. Mrs. Swinson's story, "Willie Mouse," was also enjoyed by all.

The unique valentine box which was designed by Mrs. Harry Osterhoudt, was very artistic. The valentine box was opened and Kala Robinson and Marshall Storey, Jr., were chosen to deliver the valentines.

Games were played and prizes were awarded by the teacher, Miss Mary Owens.

Augustus Osterhoudt, in the name of the school, thanked each patron of the school for his kindness and cooperation.

The hot chocolate which was relished by all was made by Mrs. Marshall Storey.

The refreshments which were all in keeping with the valentine theme, were furnished by the ladies of the community. Mr. and Mrs. Marshall Storey and daughter, Dorothy, and Miss Cora Robinson, served the refreshments to the guests.

Appointments Approved

Washington, Feb. 20 (AP)—The Senate judiciary committee approved today President Roosevelt's nomination of Dean Herschel Arant of Ohio University Law School as a federal circuit judge, and Shackelford Miller, Jr., as a federal district judge in Kentucky.

throughout the year. Their completion of floor covering for the corridors of the first and second floors and the children's ward contributed a very useful improvement and added much to the attractiveness of the hospital.

At the close of the fiscal year December 31, 1938, uncollectible accounts amounting to $8,091.14 were charged off.

The board of managers desires to express its appreciation of the loyal and efficient services rendered during the past year by the surgical and medical staff, hospital staff and the employees.

Respectfully submitted.

E. COYKENBALL, President.

Protest Is Made Against Route 9 As Model Route

Designation of Route 9 on the east side of the Hudson river, as a model highway from Albany to New York for the World's Fair, has brought a letter of protest from the Orange County Chamber of Commerce.

The letter objected on the ground that it was "an unjust and gross attempt to divert traffic from the west side of the river, although routes 8-W and 17 were very much a part of New York."

"Any attempt to mark and single out one particular highway and designate it by the wide publicity as the road to the World's Fair and neglect the others we believe is an injustice to the people who are fortunate enough to live and engage in business on the west side of the Hudson river."

The letter was addressed to Leon A. Aranowitz, executive director of the State Traffic Commission at Albany.

"law," Logan said, "and he certainly acted in the best interests of the country. He has reason to feel proud of what he has done."

Senator Nimitz (D-Ind.) added: "If everyone knew what the Senate Military Committee knows, there would not be a person in the country who would criticize the President."

Testimony about the French plane sales was made public Saturday by the committee about the time Mr. Roosevelt was telling reporters in Florida that he might have to cut short his Caribbean cruise because of information about difficulties in Europe.

The information was discounted by some sources here, although others pointed out that the president naturally had access to reports not possessed by legislators. Senator Borah (R-Idaho) commented:

"I venture to say that the totalitarian states will not put forth any threat against the United States or affecting the United States which need shorten the president's visit a single hour."

A proposal that the government construct a $10,000,000 aircraft manufacturing plant in or near Chicago was made by Chairman Sabath (D-Ill.) of the house rules committee. He contended that existing private plants are inadequate to meet foreign and domestic orders.

Johnsons Hurt In Sunday Crash

Dr. Charles H. Johnson, 68, former state commissioner of welfare and present secretary of the Grand Lodge of Masons of New York state, and Mrs. Johnson were treated Saturday in Roosevelt Hospital in New York city for injuries suffered in an auto accident.

Dr. Johnson suffered shock and nose lacerations and his wife a fractured leg when the taxicab in which they were riding was struck by a car that swerved to avoid striking a pedestrian.

Dr. Johnson is an honorary member of Rondout Lodge, No. 343, F. & A. M., and is widely known in this city. His wife is active in Eastern Star affairs. For several years they have made their home in Albany.

NATIONAL ACHIEVEMENT

The German Nazis, for some reason or other, don't seem to like us. Baldur von Schirach, speaking at a gathering of the Hitler Youth organization, expresses the opinion that none of Germany's cultural life could be eliminated without world civilization losing thereby, whereas none of our American achievements is important.

"There is a country," he says, meaning America, "that often sets itself up as an example to other nations, whose creative achievements are in inverse proportion to its attempts at criticism. I could imagine that the past and present endeavors of this nation could be eliminated without mankind feeling that it had lost anything. In fact, I think the whole world would be embarrassed if it were suddenly required to name a single inspired work of these people."

Well, how about our Constitution, for instance, with its orderly provisions for the operation of a free government by a free people, with its universal and secret ballot, and its Bill of Rights guaranteeing free speech, free press, free assembly and other basic liberties for everybody?

We have a notion that this document is inspired even more than "Mein Kampf" and Hitler's and Goebbels' orations and Goering's uniforms and badges, and the cruel concentration camps, and the Nazis' barbarous policy.

By our crude standards, the Nazi state seems to defy civilization and destroy the culture for which the world formerly admired Germany.

PATIENT INDUSTRY

There is something about those Mexicans, more than the rapidly moving visitor is likely to appreciate at first. An American tourist writes of their character, as he has observed it:

"One of the commonest misconceptions is that the common folk, mainly Indians, are lazy. After having driven thousands of miles on Mexican highways and having failed to see the pictured Indian squatting in indolence, we are moved to assert that the natives are industrious and courageous.

"Everywhere in the country you see them trudging behind pack donkeys laden with wood, cane, fodder, fruit; and they do that so long as daylight holds. In the village markets and along the curb in the vending section of Mexico City are Indians who have walked 40 miles, sleeping on church steps on the way, to get to the market with their pitance of produce."

He finds them working hard everywhere, ten hours or more a day, and getting very little for it—a silent, patient, enduring race, minding their own business and courteous to strangers.

We should know them better. The country is beautiful and impressive, but the people themselves, says the observer, are more interesting.

KILLING CROWS

They are trying to get rid of the crows in northern Colorado. Airplanes flush flocks of them from their roosting places. As they fly about in confusion, volunteer hunters on the ground let go with their guns and large numbers of crows are killed. In one of the first experimental raids, it is reported, 100 men, armed with shotguns, killed about 1,000 crows.

The authorities no doubt know what they are doing. There are probably too many crows at the present time. But the exterminators should be careful not to carry their work too far. The crow, formerly regarded as a corn thief and bad actor generally, is now recognized by scientists as a beneficial bird and a true friend of the farmer. It eats vast numbers of injurious insects, earning many times over the pay it takes from the farmer in grain. If the birds are actually exterminated, and not merely reduced in numbers, the people of that region are likely to find their insect enemies gaining on them.

REVAMPING WPA

Something obviously is going to happen to WPA soon, and probably something drastic. It has served a useful purpose and accomplished much valuable work, in spite of the legitimate criticism, but it was improvised for an emergency that was not expected to last very long.

Now it is recognized that certain public purposes served by this organization are not accidental or temporary, that the problems it was made to solve may be with us a long time. So it is said that the WPA in its present form will be discontinued, but its essential functions will be carried on by a new and better organization, with a different name.

What it will amount to, we are told, is a "permanent work-reserve corps," in which it is expected that men and women will be trained for trades frankly and efficiently. It will have an effective employment service. There should be nothing casual or makeshift about such an institution, and there need be no shame in being connected with it.

Business has been sleeping like Snow White, but they're chasing the old witch over the cliff; and now where's that Fairy Prince.

Thrift isn't always thrift. Did anyone ever get ahead by wearing the same suit of clothes for 10 years?

Sure, if you want a thing well done, do it yourself; then you'll think it's well done.

There seem to be three or four parties operating at Washington now.

The President seems to be getting more advice than consent from the Senate.

INFLAMMATION OF THE LOWEL BOWEL

The large bowel or intestine is known as the colon so that an inflammation of the colon is called colitis.

What is known as mucous colitis is very common these days as it is usually due to nervousness or emotional upsets which are met with so often now. There is usually soreness over abdomen, pain resembling colic, constipation (due to spasms) with large quantities of mucus, either alone or covering hardened wastes (feces) in shape of strings, shreds and bands sometimes tinged with blood. There are present also headaches and physical tiredness. The treatment of mucous colitis consists in trying to acquire calmness (avoiding excitement) and the use of soft foods—fruit juices, green vegetables such as asparagus, pumpkins, cucumbers, buttermilk, clear soups, puddings, custards, fruits, buttermilk, clear soups, puddings, custards. Foods to be avoided are fried eggs, preserves, berries, alcoholics, gravies, sauces, condiments such as pepper and mustard.

However there is a more severe form of colitis known as chronic ulcerative colitis in which the lining of the bowel is greatly inflamed and ulcerated. In this type of colitis, slimy, pus, and blood come away with the stools which have a disagreeable odor. There is also the distress, pain, and tiredness over the abdomen, loss of appetite, loss of weight, and anemia—this blood.

In ulcerative colitis a prolonged rest in bed is given and heat in some form (hot water bag) is applied to the abdomen.

Diet here is likewise very important. At first all rough or solid food is avoided, only clear waters being allowed. Then cereal gruels alone for some time followed gradually by milk, orange, and lemon juice. Then scraped meat, cleansing enemata containing baking soda, table salt, and boric acid are used daily. Sometimes when patient has become weak and anemic, blood transfusion are used with excellent results. While surgery may become necessary in some cases, "it frequently happens that by rest, careful diet, and use of enemata complete relief of all symptoms occurs together with complete healing of the ulcerated surface of the colon."

YOUR FEDERAL INCOME TAX

No. 21 Deduction for Interest

Amounts paid or accrued within the taxable year 1938 as interest on indebtedness are deductible, with certain exceptions, from gross income in determining net income. Such items include interest on borrowed money to defray personal expenses, and on money borrowed for the purchase of real or personal property. If a person owes money on a lien or mortgage note on his home, the amount of the interest may be deducted. Indebtedness, however, need not be evidenced by lien, judgment, or mortgage to make the interest on it deductible. Frequently indebtedness is evidenced only by a note.

Interest paid on indebtedness incurred in the purchase of obligations of the United States issued after September 21, 1917, and originally subscribed for by the taxpayer, is not deductible. Interest paid on loans on life-insurance policies is deductible provided the amount of the loan is not used for the purposes previously referred to in this paragraph.

Interest paid on behalf of a friend or relative where there is no legal obligation on the part of the payor is not deductible. In such cases the amount is the same as a gift.

As interest paid is deductible, so interest received is taxable. All such amounts, including interest received on bank and savings deposits, must be included in the taxpayer's return of gross income.

New Dealers and Anti-New Dealers Cannot Agree on What Last Elections Really Signify
By DAVID LAWRENCE

Copyright, 1939
Washington, Feb. 20.—(Strange as it may seem, the principal reason why there isn't much progress being made in Washington nowadays is that the New Dealers cannot seem to agree on what the congressional elections last November really signify.)

Many of the Democratic senators who have been talking with President Roosevelt have come away with the feeling that he thinks a series of "local" reasons accounted for the loss of Democratic seats in the House and Senate, whereas many Democrats, as well as virtually all the Republicans, honestly believe the last election revealed a national tide of dissatisfaction with the New Deal. The Democrats, however, told this to the President, but, they report, without persuasive effect.

Now the President has certain reasons for disagreeing, and they are entitled to consideration. For one thing, the Gallup poll, which has been so uniformly accurate, reports this week that Mr. Roosevelt's popularity is 58 per cent, which is higher by three points than it was last November and higher than it has been with few exceptions since 1932.

This matter of personal popularity, however, is not the basic argument on the President's side. His deep-seated conviction is that no matter how many Republican seats were gained last autumn, the majority of the voters are still wedded to what he interprets as the "liberal" cause. Indeed, wrapped up in this particular approach to the question is the origin of the President's disagreement with his colleagues. He might even be made to believe that there were general or national influences at work in the last election, but he will not concede that the majority of the voters were aware of national issues in 1938 or would in 1940 exchange "liberal" Democratic for "conservative" Republican rule.

Mr. Roosevelt knows, to be sure, that in 1936 he had the overwhelming support of organized labor. He cannot believe that, however dissatisfied the A. F. of L. members may be with some aspects of the labor board, they would be willing to trust a Republican administration to administer the National Labor Relations Act or revise it. He cannot believe also that, however discontented the farmers may be, they will desert the Democratic party in such greater numbers as to give the Republicans their old-time majorities in the farm states.

So long as the Roosevelt administration feels it can hold a substantial part of the farmer vote and of the city labor vote, it is sure that the big segment of independent voters of the middle groups will also stay with the Democratic party.

When it comes, then, to "appeasement" or "cooperation" between the left and right wings of the Democratic party itself, the President sees no reason for shifting his position, because to do so, he thinks, is to compromise with "liberalism," and the only kind of compromise each side really wants is absolute surrender by the other.

If Mr. Roosevelt had been convinced that the country was really turning thumbs down on "liberalism" and was moving over to what he calls the reactionary side, he might have been disposed to make concessions, but he feels that to do so when majority sentiment does not plainly indicate its disapproval of his purposes is to betray true "liberalism."

Perhaps one of the things that sticks in the President's mind is the way the Republicans on the stump last autumn told audiences that they favored New Deal "objectives," but not the New Deal "methods." Mr. Roosevelt fears this may be but a political maneuver, something like that which the Republicans worked in 1920, when many of them, including Charles Evans Hughes, former President Taft and Elihu Root, told Republicans to vote for Warren Harding, because the latter favored American entrance into the League of Nations, but with "reservations." After the election was over, Mr. Harding insisted the result meant a complete repudiation of the league, reservations and all.

If the Republicans win in 1940, will they, having got votes on the platform of New Deal "objectives," say after a victory that the people had completely repudiated even the objectives of the New Deal and proceed to repeal the social legislation which "liberals" on the Democratic side are fighting to preserve?

In the answer to this fundamental question lies the key to the cleavages which are arising. Mr. Roosevelt intends to fight for "liberalism" even if his defeat is encompassed by conservatives within the Democratic ranks in coalition with conservatives on the Republican side. When 1940 comes, he will either run himself, or make the supreme battle for a candidate who can fight for "liberalism," someone like Robert H. Jackson, the present solicitor general. And, as for the would-be candidates on the Democratic side who are lukewarm about Mr. Roosevelt and plan to seek the support of the conservatives in the party, they will find the Roosevelt political machine fighting them tooth and nail unless they embrace the Roosevelt objectives wholeheartedly and manifest in the next year or so their fidelity to those objectives.

Maybe this cleavage means a third party, with liberals drawn from the Republican and from the Democratic side. Such a split may mean the election of a Republican conservative in 1940, but there are few who will venture to say what it could mean in 1944, with Franklin Roosevelt plainly the leader of such a "liberal" coalition and able perhaps to win the nomination of the Democratic party on a "liberal crusade."

Clearly, what is going on in Washington now is not to be simplified as just presidential stubbornness or pique, but as something so fundamental in the currents of American politics as to give genuine concern to everybody, perhaps except those observers who rationalize everything without regard to the tremendous forces in the economic world which lie back of the pro and anti-liberal trends of the times.

CHEST COLDS

Here's Quick Relief from Their MISTRESS!

The annoying discomforts of a cold in chest or throat, generally come upon you when you are least expecting them. Better than a mustard plaster, Musterole gives action because it's NOT just a salve. It's a "counter-irritant"; stimulating, it penetrates the surface skin and helps to quickly relieve local congestion, aches and pains due to colds.

Used by millions for 40 years. Recommended by many doctors and nurses. In three strengths: Regular, Children's (mild) and Extra Strong, 40¢. Approved by Good Housekeeping Bureau.

ARREST REVEALS STRANGE PACT

Arrest of Harold Martin Luther, 28, and his wife, Ruby, 17, revealed to Chicago, Ill., police what they termed the couple's strange pact purporting to give either permission to slay the other or blind the other's eyes should his or her mate be found unfaithful. They were arrested on accusation of carrying with them while begging their 19-month-old daughter, Martina. The baby is shown with them after police quiz.

Model Engineers Visit Annual Show

Six members of the Kingston Model Railroad Club visited the 11th annual exhibition of the New York Society of Model Engineers and the second annual National Model Show, Sunday at New York City.

Attending were Addison A. Schultz, Dave Lomis, Charles Melig, Lewis E. Jursman, Henry P. Eighme, King J. Bogardus, and former members August Snell and Glen W. Kraus of Middletown.

The New York Society's exhibition was held for the first time in the new quarters, basement of the Knickerbocker Building. The quarter-inch scale miniature railroad system, the Union Connecting Lines, was only partially completed for the exhibition but many miniature limiteds, fast freights, and way freights were in operation over the system—and with the proper sound effects furnished by an electric recording.

The National Model Show, inaugurated in 1938, is sponsored by the various manufacturers of equipment for model railroads. Booths of the manufacturers display the thousands of gadgets available for the modern model engineer, and the center of the floor space is reserved for operating layouts in three gauges, O gauge, OO gauge, and HO gauge.

DANGEROUS SERVICE

by GRACE ELLIOTT TAYLOR

The Characters

Peter Mallone: Adventurous correspondent for the London News.

Petronella: His charming young sister.

Tony Lance: British agent, in love with Petrel.

Yesterday: Petrel and Tony dance, play mah-jong, etc. Then Tony's papers arrive.

Chapter 29

Dispatch From Moscow

PETREL ran up the steps of the Continental. Ted Masters and Rogers were drinking together at a small table near the door. She crossed an angle of the lounge to speak to them. They stood. They looked tired, dusty, hot. They had needed that drink, she surmised. What had been happening in Cairo?

"A hard day?" she asked. "A thoroughly nasty day. Plenty of lost tempers. Peter is still out." But Petronella sang softly to herself as she bathed and changed. Another beautiful evening of dancing, laughter, and love making was approaching. Usually her spirits were infected easily by her surroundings, but tonight the strife in Cairo could not depress them. For once she would be utterly selfish. She would refuse to think about the wounded police, the angry demonstrators, injured, or kicking their brown heels in jail. She was in love.

When she heard a knock at her door, she opened it instantly. It might be Tony. She was ready. But it was Peter who came stumbling into the light. He had a blood-stained handkerchief round his left temple, and a drawn, sheepish grin on his face; smears of dust, and blood made his appearance ghastly.

"Peter!" "Sorry, my dear. I've gone and got hurt again. I wonder if you would just fix me up?"

"You're not badly injured? What happened?"

"A trolley car mobbed and overturned. I was near, and got into the scrap. Couldn't stand by and see women and children crushed. Got hit on the head with a bottle."

He was swaying. He could not walk straight to the sofa.

"Well, you can't right here and lie down here, old darling, and show me what they've done to spoil your bump of chivalry." When she saw the bruise and the jagged cut, she understood the glazed, bright look in his eyes. She believed he had slight concussion. He did not know it. He babbled cheerfully to her, as the warmth of the brandy she gave him rapidly lost its effect.

When she had bathed and bandaged him, he raised his right hand. It hung limp from the wrist.

"This doesn't seem to be much good either. Petrel. Awfully sorry old girl," he said, and fainted.

Briskly, with two combs, and strips from the hotel face towel, she made a rough patch. That was as good as a job as she could make of it. It would prevent the pain of crepusculi. Now she must find one of the already over-worked doctors. But it would not matter, so desperately, if he could not come at once.

"Feel better, old boy?"

"Heaps better. You'll need to recall your facts. Think I'll stay here quietly." He spoke as at he was making a concession to feminine over-anxiety, not obeying necessity. Petrel wrinkled her nose. "Yes, I shouldn't go playing squash, or riding a camel, or fighting any more trolleys if I were you!" she laughed. "That wrist must be properly set, Peter, and your head would be better off with a stitch to draw it together. I have of my plaster. I'll be back as soon as I can. The clerk will help me find a doctor by telephone."

"You'll have to feed my face for me. Wouldn't this have been an ideal opportunity for Aunt Maisie to feed me with oysters? I don't like fat, or oysters, you know," he said, and yawned.

"What an odd thing to say, Peter. I don't remember Aunt Maisie ever attempting to make you eat fat."

"It's You I Wanted!"

"Oh yes, yes she did, once. And Margold tried to feed me oysters at Quaglin's last winter. Before we went to Greece. And again in the Jubilee week, at the Savoy. You know, Peter, I gripped her wrist, with his ungrateful hand. 'Margold just can't understand why I don't like oysters. I feel sleepy. Sleepy as an oyster.'"

"You certainly finished that flask all right," smiled Petrel, releasing herself gently. But she was worried. She did not believe that Peter was drunk. He had been convicted several times since their last visit to England. But this was the first time he had told her that he had met Margold in London. She had wondered, and half guessed that he had. Their visit to Margold's country home had not been a success. Neither Margold's forced gaiety, or young Jeremy Peter, crawling on the hearth-rug, or her own efforts at conversation, had been sufficient cover for Peter's numbness, and the unalterable thought in all their minds. "This is still a mistake."

"Thank you, Peter. Sure you're up to it? I didn't want to let any of the others in on this, because—"

"No, of course not," grinned Peter. "They might put their careers first, and give it a scoop headline. Keep this in the family!"

This was how it happened that, when Petronella returned, ten minutes later, with a Dr. Abraham, who had only been persuaded to leave his surgery because she looked anxious, and had a sweet smile, they found the patient gone. The room empty, the patient gone. Recomposing him for his trouble, Petronella showed the doctor apologetically to the lift again.

They passed Fleur's door. Through it, they both heard the sound of stormy sobbing. The doctor shrugged. "A doctor is no use there, either."

When he had gone, she returned, and knocked. There was no answer.

She entered.

"Fleur! Please, Fleur, what is it?" she asked the collapsed bundle, heaving on the bed. She dreaded what she might hear.

"René is dying. I knew it was going to happen. Mein Gott, now what will become of me? My work gone! Without him, I have nothing, nothing! I shall starve!"

(Copyright, 1939, Grace Elliott Taylor)

"Try to sleep. Goodbye for a little while."

"G-by," mumbled Peter. He was muttering again, as she closed the door.

Petronella seemed to be gone a long time, thought Peter. His mind walked through strange mazes. Aunt Maisie, and his childhood, were inexplicably mixed up with meeting Margold in the little room, in her parents' empty house, in Kensington. There were dust sheets draped over everything, but the windows, unexpectedly, looked out over the Aegean sea. One moment, Margold's kisses seemed real. The next, he knew he was dreaming for Margold kept calling him "comrade," and Aunt Maisie, riding a white Arab horse, was trying to push them apart. Somebody he could not recognize was hitting him over the head with a sandbag, with a series of dull thuds.

A knock on the door awakened him into the present. "Come in!"

"Hello, Peter." He struggled into a sitting position and blinked.

"Hello, Lance. Petrel has gone out for a minute or two."

"What is the matter with you? It was you I wanted to see. Masters told me I'd find you here. Are you all right?"

"Yes, just taking a little shut eye. Got a bit dented as you see by my head. But it isn't as bad as it looks." Peter was sitting up. His slight color, and bright eyes, gave him an eager health. Tony was worried about something, and he wanted to know what it was. For the moment, his mind had cleared itself completely.

"I'm glad, Mallone, because I've come to ask you to do a job for me. It is something I can't do myself. You've guessed why I'm here."

"Waiting for something?"

"Yes, which has arrived—almost arrived. I'm here to receive papers from Moscow. René Howard, who is a British agent, flew here. But he crashed just over an hour ago in the desert, outside the city. Near the Fayum Road. Petrel and I saw his lights. There was mist. Perhaps he was short of gas. He is very seriously injured. He has been taken to the Anglo-American hospital."

"Plan Of Campaign"

"YOU mean to tell me that René Howard is—"

"One of the cleverest British spies living. I thought Petrel would have told you. She must know. He helped you gain your release from Germany."

Peter whistled. "I suppose it wasn't her secret to tell. She never breathed a word. It accounts for some of her behavior. At first, I resented her so much as speaking to the slick, effeminate devil. Till I found I liked him myself."

Tony smiled. "She did not tell me, either. I dared not tell her, for fear she couldn't keep secrets! This information is pretty important. It was an amazing piece of work to procure it at all. It gives the organization a plan of campaign for the coming three years."

"Of course. And this will show you where to expect strikes, sabotage, wrecking, riots? Fine! What do you want me to do?"

"The papers are copies. It is only suspected René may have managed to get them. No one knows for certain there was a leakage. He left half an hour before they tried to arrest him. That head of yours will be sufficient excuse to wander into the Anglo-American and find him. If he is conscious, find out if he has the papers on him; he'll give them to you. But they may have been taken from him by the police, after he was hauled out of the wrecked plane. Find that out. I'd go myself, if I could lose my shadow. But it is no use. They're hot on this plane business. I might get that dispatch, but I shouldn't keep it long. But they won't suspect you, with that head of yours. As I think, he'll have kept the dispatch, bring it to me at the Continental."

Peter nodded. "Right, Tony."

"Thank you, Peter. Sure you're up to it? I didn't want to let any of the others in on this, because—"

"No, of course not," grinned Peter. "They might put their careers first, and give it a scoop headline. Keep this in the family!"

This was how it happened that, when Petronella returned, ten minutes later, with a Dr. Abraham, who had only been persuaded to leave his surgery because she looked anxious, and had a sweet smile, they found the patient gone. The room empty, the patient gone. Recomposing him for his trouble, Petronella showed the doctor apologetically to the lift again.

They passed Fleur's door. Through it, they both heard the sound of stormy sobbing. The doctor shrugged. "A doctor is no use there, either."

When he had gone, she returned, and knocked. There was no answer.

She entered.

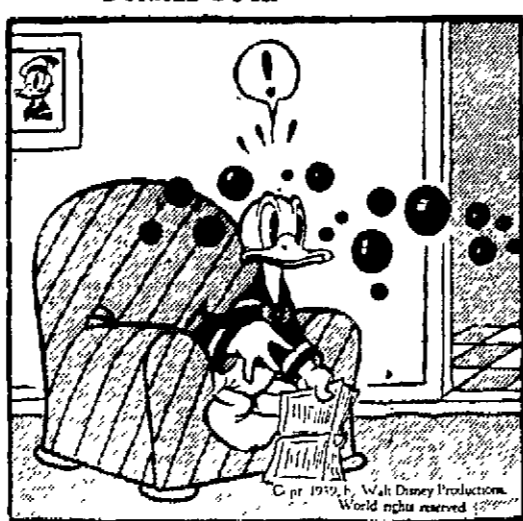

"Fleur! Please, Fleur, what is it?" she asked the collapsed bundle, heaving on the bed. She dreaded what she might hear.

"René is dying. I knew it was going to happen. Mein Gott, now what will become of me? My work gone! Without him, I have nothing, nothing! I shall starve!"

TRADE MARK REG.

We start today with a tribute to "YOUR NEIGHBOR."

Whether a man lives across the street from you or across the bench from you, he is your neighbor.

Neighboring citizens think and act in terms of mutual helpfulness. They improve citizenship. In the same way, "neighboring" craftsmen improve craftsmanship.

The neighboring spirit is wholesome. It is based on fairness, understanding and consideration. A helpful act, a cheerful word, a pleasant smile, makes us feel better and work better.

During the working day there are many opportunities to be helpful to each other without neglecting our own work, or interfering with our routine duties.

Helpful relations build up a better knowledge of our work, of each other and of the business in which we are engaged.

Let us all be good, helpful neighbors where we work... as well as where we live.

A Mississippi River steamboat was stopped in the mouth of a tributary stream, owing to the dense fog. An inquisitive passenger inquired of the captain the cause of the delay.

Captain (laconically)—Can't see up the river.

Passenger (sharply)—But I can see the stars overhead.

Captain—Yes, but unless the boilers bust, we ain't going that way.

There is a tie between a father and son, says Rotary speaker. And if there is, you can bet that the son is wearing it.

A grocer's had was ascending a stairway with his arms full of packages, and a competitive tea was planned for this spring. Committee members were appointed for the tea, and program suggestions were recorded so that they may be brought up at the county's program planning conference next month.

The highest church steeple in the world is in Ulm, Germany. It reaches 528 feet above the ground and dates from the Middle Ages.

The long drought had ended and the lightly falling rain was collecting in beads of silver on the clothes and hair of the farm hands.

Farmer (calling)—Come in out of it, George.

Hired Man—I don't mind a little rain like this one.

Farmer—Don't mind, be danged! I want that rain on my land.

The girl who visits the bargain counter and leaves without making a purchase, is such a suspicious person that sometimes they arrest her for resisting temptation.

Mrs. Newrich—My dear, this afternoon I tried one of those lovely new-fangled mud packs. By the way, what do you think of mud as a beautifier?

Mrs. Goldbeck—Well, it hasn't done much for the turtle.

It is the hard pullers and fleet runners who arouse the enthusiasm of the spectators in the grandstand.

Showing up at breakfast next morning, hubby said:

Hubby—I'll admit, dear, that I didn't get home until six o'clock.

Wife—Oh, I know that.

Hubby—Yes, that's why I'm admitting it.

There's hardly enough space left here to say very much, which brings to mind the case which happened to be the first court experience of a young lawyer just out of law school. So important did the case appear to him that, in summing up for his client he talked so long and with such fervor, that the jury became visibly bored and by the time he finished appeared more exhausted than did the young counselor. His opponent, an old hand at judging the temper of juries, recognized the symptoms. With a courteous bow to the judge, he approached the jury box. "Gentlemen of the jury," he said with a smile that was understandable to all, "I will follow the example of my young friend who has just concluded and will submit our case without argument."

Hollywood Sights And Sounds

By Robin Coons

HOLLYWOOD—Big-time stuff: On the Warner ranch at Calabasas some 500 extras are on hand to help Paul Muni Juarez defy the raised guns of a firing squad as he marches alone down a block-long street into the low building held by Joseph Calleja as Urdi, usurper of Juarez's power in Mexico.

The set—specially built and including an old mission church—represents the town of Matamoros. Muni as Juarez—and with that make-up he isn't Muni any longer—arrives at street's end in a coach driven by Vladimir Sokoloff, stern down, and with most of the 500 extras at his heels, he marches solemnly on Urdi's headquarters. As the Urdi troops line up, level their guns, the crowd falls back but Juarez marches alone, never changing pace. The soldiers ignore their commander's order to fire lower their weapons as Juarez marches unflinchingly through...

Safely behind the camera, grand Muni Juarez relaxes into a grin. "That took courage," he says. "Imagine my walking so bravely into those guns—knowing they weren't loaded."

It's like turning back the clock to go on the "Rose of Washington Square" set and see Al Jolson singing nonchalantly in the aisles of a burlesque theater set. The song he sings—or rather moves his lips to as the "playback" sings it for him—is "Fanny Baby."

A little more than ten years ago Jolson was the only movie star in town doing any singing for the mike. His sound stage was a sweat-box, housing more jitters than today's swing craze has produced.

It's "Lucky Night" for Myrna Loy and Robert Taylor. It's one of those pictures in which hero and heroine, after an impromptu meeting, start on a whirl of gambling fun during which they can't lose. The script says they get married then—which is when the let-down and the humdrum begin.

Today they're at the bingo table, winning hands down, on an elaborate "playhouse" set where in the background a fine new car is about to be raffled off. They're putting their bingo winnings into a $2 ticket on the car in the next scene, and while the camera is shifting for it Myrna sits down and looks at some stills. Bob repairs to his set dressing room where pretty soon I bust up his nap with the question: "Does he know he's going to be married when this picture is done?"

Bob rears up and says, "Yes," with a sort of sigh, "and last month, and last week, and day-before-yesterday I was married too."

But he won't give further. The picture he did with Barbara Stanwyck was called "This Is My Affair" and I think that is how he feels about it, in four easy words.

W. C. T. U. Memorial Meeting

A Frances E. Willard memorial meeting was held by the Kingston Women's Christian Temperance Union on Thursday in St. James Methodist Church.

Mrs. Thomas Edmonston, evangelistic director, read the Scripture lesson, Ps. 119:1-8, and offered prayer. This Bible portion was one of Miss Willard's favorite portions. "An Appreciation," by Hannah Whitall Smith, a notable American Quakeress, was read by Miss Saulpaugh. This testified to the greatness of Miss Willard, a distinction none could fail to recognize; its source being her rare and beautiful character. Hannah Whitall Smith it was who gave the impetus to the British Women's Temperance Association and induced Lady Henry Somerset to engage in temperance work. Miss Smith said, when word of the death of Miss Willard became known: "Frances Willard is dead, and one of the greatest women of the age has passed out from the world's eyes. She was the most Christ-like woman I have ever met." Miss Saulpaugh also read excerpts from "Follow the Glean" by Anna Marden Deyo.

At the conclusion of the program Mrs. George Shultis, president, announced that the Frances E. Willard union memorial service would be held Sunday evening, April 23, with the Kingston Ministerial Association cooperating. The union voted to send "The Union Signal," a journal of social welfare, to the W. C. T. U. for the ensuing year.

Child Pianist Makes Debut Here

AMELIA ALTAMARI

Amelia Altamari, 12-year-old pianist, made her debut Sunday afternoon at the Governor Clinton Hotel in a recital which showed her to be a musician of deep feeling and intelligence. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Altamari of 219 Washington avenue and has studied piano for four years at the Academy of St. Ursula, where she is a student.

The program was not one of mere technical display but showed an inner feeling of appreciation for good music. The pianist had a sweet stage presence and poise and the girl's blue velvet frock which she wore was in keeping with the simplicity yet good taste of the program. Pedalling and interpretation as well as finger dexterity were further attributes.

The program consisted of eight numbers and lasted about an hour. All numbers with the exception of one, were played from memory. Compositions played were "Valse Argonne" by Thome, the presto movement from "Sonata in F Minor" by Beethoven, "Song of the Brook" by Lack, "Au Roulet" by Godard, "Scherzo in E Minor" by Mendelssohn, "Pierette" by Chamindale, "A Scottish Tone Poem" by Mac Dowell and "Sous Bois" by Staub. As an encore Miss Altamari played "Papillon Rose" by Thome.

At the conclusion of the program the ushers presented Miss Altamari with many floral tributes of congratulations. A reception for some 80 guests followed at the Altamari residence. Ushers during the afternoon performance were Michael Altamari, brother of the pianist, and three cousins, Louis Altamari, Charles King and Michael Amato.

Williams-Gabriel

Miss Margaret Gabriel, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Gabriel of West New York, N. J., and Kenneth S. Williams, son of Supervisor and Mrs. Samuel Williams of Derenbacher street, this city, were united in marriage Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock at the parsonage of the Church of the Comforter by the pastor, the Rev. Cornelius Mouskens. The bride was attended by Miss Virginia Wood of Mt. Vernon, a classmate of the bride, and Donald Stewart of Dumont, N. J., attended the groom. The bride wore a gown of Suez rose with a corsage of orchids. The bridesmaid wore a gown of teal blue and carried a bouquet of roses. The bride is a graduate of Barnard College, class of 1938, where she received her B. A. degree. Mr. Williams is employed as a clerk in the Central Post Office in this city. Following the wedding a dinner was served at McCabe's Restaurant. After a wedding trip to Washington and points south, Mr. and Mrs. Williams will reside in their new home at 100 Wilson avenue.

Miss Dorothy Fuller to Wed
The engagement of Miss Dorothy Charlotte Fuller of Downs street to Henry Franklin Bullock Higgins of New York city and Woodstock was announced Saturday at a Valentine luncheon bridge held at the home of the bride-elect. Covers were laid for 16 guests. Miss Fuller is the daughter of Mrs. William Howard Fuller and the late William Fuller. Mr. Higgins is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence M. Higgins. Among the guests at the luncheon were Miss Katherine Castle and Miss Alice Sibly Robertson of New Milford, Conn., and Miss Margaret Bennett of South Orange, N. J.

Engagement Announced
Announcement has been made of the engagement of Miss Florence Rhymmer, daughter of Mrs. George Rhymmer and the late George Rhymmer of Shufeldt street, to William Bush, son of Mrs. Henry Bush and the late Henry Bush of Hurley avenue. The wedding will take place in June.

To Wed Attorney

New York, Feb. 20.—(Special) A license to wed was issued at the municipal building here Saturday to Miss Mary Madden, formerly of Rosendale and now of 148 West 52nd street, this city, and George J. Hayes, an attorney, of 10 Monroe street, New York. They will be married February 21 in St. Gregory's Church in New York. The bride-elect, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Francis and Anna Madden, was born in Rosendale. Mr. Hayes was born in New York, the son of Mr. and Mrs. James Hayes.

Play at St. James Church
"The Return of the Prodigal," a one-act play written by Elma Ehrlich Levinger, will be given in the St. James Methodist Church Sunday evening, February 26, at 7:30 o'clock. This play is based on a certain parable in Luke and was awarded the first prize in the 1935 religious drama contest held by the Drama League of America. The performance is under the auspices of the Epworth League of that church and the cast, which will be announced later, is comprised of Epworth League members. During the course of the evening a silver offering will be received.

Y. M. Couples Club Meets
The Couples Club of the Y. M. C. A. met Saturday evening at the "Y." Hosts for the evening were Mr. and Mrs. Edward DeWitt and Mr. and Mrs. Lester Decker who had arranged entertaining games for the group. The club has agreed to cooperate in the coming Y. M. campaign with providing workers and captain division leaders. Guests from Newburgh were Mr. and Mrs. Russell Rymer and Mr. and Mrs. Harold J. Ochs. Mr. Rymer is general secretary of the Newburgh Y. M. C. A. and Mr. Ochs is physical director.

Nursing Committee to Meet
The Nursing committee of the town of Ulster will hold a meeting Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock at the East Kingston school house. All districts are invited to attend.

Hostess on Birthday
Drusilla Nestell of Henry street was hostess on her twelfth birthday Saturday afternoon at a theatre party, following which the guests returned to her home for refreshments. Guests present were Joan Eckert, James Griffin, Herbert Nestell, Bruce and Walter Kirchhofer, and Gay and David Lasher.

Pre-Lenten Social
St. Peter's parish will hold its annual pre-Lenten affair Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock. As a variation from past masquerades and dances the parishioners and their friends are invited to attend a social party at the school hall on Adams street to be conducted by the Holy Name Society for the benefit of the parish. Refreshments will be served in the dining room during and after the social party. This part of the evening's enjoyment will be under the supervision of the Christian Mothers' organization of the church.

Music Group to Meet
Members of the Kingston Musical Society who are in the group to sing at the World's Fair are asked to meet Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock at the home of Mrs. A. Noble Graham, 21 Janet street.

D. A. R. to Meet Wednesday
Witwicky Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, will celebrate Washington's Birthday Wednesday with the annual special program. This year the committee is presenting a program of Colonial music arranged by Miss Catherine McCommons and Miss Alberta Davis. Hostesses for the afternoon will be the entertainment committee. The program will begin at 2:30 and the guest of honor will be Miss Virginia Luedtke, a senior in the Kingston High School, who was chosen by the faculty and class as the best Kingston citizen in a competition being sponsored by the national society in choosing the best citizen from each state to make a pilgrimage to Washington. Miss Luedtke will be presented with a good citizen pin at the meeting on Wednesday.

Rosendale Club Has Dance

The Rosendale Women's Club held a costume dance Saturday evening at Kristie Farm Inn. The 30 couples dressed in humorous costumes spent an hilarious and gay evening as modern and square dances were called. Impromptu recitations were in order and laughter and merriment reigned. The arrangements for the dance were in charge of Mrs. Stephen Hubert and Mrs. E. F. Galvin.

Normal School News

New Paltz, Feb. 20.—Those who were fortunate enough to swing their partner at the Country Life Barn Dance voted it a huge success. A professional hill-billy band played throughout the evening and the dances were called out by one of the musicians through a loud speaker. Entertainment took place at the intermissions. Opening the entertainment was a toe dance by Miss Martha Zaengle, accompanied by John Rogers, and a singing chorus made up of Mildred Ludwig, Louise Brown, Mary Warran and Shirley Herbert. Mildred Ludwig and Louise Brown then led the audience in old-fashioned songs. Square dances and reels were demonstrated by Virginia Baker, Mary Warran, Martha Tommason, Sadie Muscual, Elizabeth Brown, Samuel Baldowski, Les McKeena and Richard C. Rhoades, both of the Normal School English department.

The play has been in rehearsal for several days, and members of the cast are rapidly nearing perfection in their parts. Kingston residents who attended the club's production last spring, "Spring Dance," by Philip Barry, will remember Gordon Kelder and Leo Bentpre, who had leading roles then, ably supported by an accomplished cast. Both have captured the leading male roles for "The Swan." Many will recall having seen Mr. Kelder in summer stock presentations.

The lighting effects, under the direction of Donald Schoonmaker and George Koerner, and the stage setting under Eileen Rayno, also are rapidly nearing completion, and promise a fitting background for a fine play.

Miss Ethel Eckert, senior at New Paltz Normal School, has been active in organizing a 4-11 Club in connection with the Country Life Club of the school. Miss Eckert, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Eckert of Rifton, recently completed her senior cadet teaching at Modena, where she taught in the first five grades. She is a member of Glee Club, and of Sigma Pi Sigma, the honorary scholastic organization of the school.

Miss Eleanor Bundy, a junior at New Paltz Normal School, was recently appointed poetry editor of the Paltzonette, the literary magazine of the school. Miss Bundy, daughter of Dewey L. Bundy, of 15 Warren street, is a member of the Theta Phi Sorority. She belongs to Country Life Club, an organization which acquaints the student with rural life and rural communities. She has been active in the Normal's Glee Club and the Archery and Rifle Club.

Virgil Sheeley, senior at New Paltz Normal School, will start his cadet training in February at Marlborough, where he will teach in the junior high grades. Mr. Sheeley, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Sheeley of Cottkill, has been for three years a member of the New Paltz Band, where he plays the trumpet. He is actively interested in archery and the Rifle Club. Mr. Sheeley is a member of the Delphic Fraternity.

Edwin Ford, senior at New Paltz Normal School, has been re-elected treasurer of his class for the third consecutive year. Mr. Ford, son of Mrs. Elsie S. Ford of 387 Albany avenue, has been a member of the New Paltz Band for three years. He is a member of the school dramatic club, where he has taken several important parts. Mr. Ford has been chosen on the decoration committee for senior prom, the annual senior dance and one of the outstanding social functions of the school year. He is a member of the Delphic Fraternity.

Miss Mildred Ludwig, of Hurley avenue, and Miss Rose Campbell and Eleanor Bundy, of Kingston, Juniors, will do their practice teaching at the van den Berg School of Practice from March to June. Miss Ludwig is chairman of the entertainment committee for the Junior Service Dance, while Miss Bundy is assisting on the decorations, and Miss Beverly St. Leger also of Kingston is on the refreshment committee.

On Thursday night, March 2, the Dramatic Club of the New Paltz Normal School will present Ferenc Molnar's "The Swan."

This play is the club's annual presentation, the goal of the group all through the year, during which they present several smaller plays. "The Swan," more serious in nature than previous plays, is a three-act romantic comedy. It is directed by Miss Rebecca McKenna and Richard C. Rhoades, both of the Normal School English department.

The play has been in rehearsal for several days, and members of the cast are rapidly nearing perfection in their parts. Kingston residents who attended the club's production last spring, "Spring Dance," by Philip Barry, will remember Gordon Kelder and Leo Bentpre, who had leading roles then, ably supported by an accomplished cast. Have Spring Indoors With Lovely Flowers

Grow Lily-of-the-Valley, Ferns
Sweet lilies-of-the-valley, here again to remind you that spring is on its way!

You can quickly grow them from slips—in water. Add a little sand or fiber to keep the slips above the water's surface, place the bowl in a warm, dark spot until the shoots are three inches high. Remove to the daylight and soon—fragrant, bell-like blossoms.

Always beautiful are ferns—says the luxuriant polypody fern in our picture. Simple to keep, they healthy, start new ferns too. Just watch out for drafts, submerge the pots in a pail of water every five days for a good soaking.

To start new ferns, peg down the small green runners growing on the old plant—as our diagram shows. Soon they'll root, be ready to pot. Or you can grow young ferns from the spores in the fruit "dots" which appear on the under sides of the fern leaves in the spring.

Another indoor joy this season is forcing flowering fruit-tree branches in water. Complete instructions are given in our 32-page booklet. Tells how to raise foliage plants, ferns, bulbs, vines, blooming plants—grow flowers, plants in water.

Send 10c in coin for your copy of MAKING PLANTS AND FLOWERS GROW INDOORS to Kingston Daily Freeman, Home Service, 635 Sixth Avenue, New York, N. Y. Be sure to write plainly your NAME, ADDRESS, and the NAME of booklet.

Mother Visits School

New Bloomfield, Pa., Feb. 20.

—A mother making her first visit to the elementary school to check on her child in the first grade was undecided as to which room to enter. She pressed a button. Presto! bells clanged, pupils and teachers filed out smartly in an unscheduled fire drill.

Mother's Standby in Treating

CHILDREN'S COLDS

FOR RELIEVING discomforts of chest, colds and night coughs, rub Vicks VapoRub on throat, chest, and back at bedtime. Its soothing action relieves local congestion and helps the youngster relax into restful sleep.

FOR COUGHING and irritated throat due to colds, rub VapoRub on the child's tongue. It melts, bathes the throat with comforting medication. Also massage on throat and chest.

FOR HEAD-COLDS "sniffles" and misery, melt a spoonful of VapoRub in a bowl of boiling water. Have the child breathe in the steamy vapors. This loosens phlegm, clears air-passages.

MEN LOVE GIRLS WITH PEP

If you are peppy and full of fun, men will invite you to dances and parties. BUT if you are listless and tired, men won't be interested. Men don't like "quiet" girls. When they go to parties they want girls along who are full of pep.

So in case you need a good general system tonic, remember for 3 generations one woman has told another how to go "smiling thru" with Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It helps build up more physical resistance and thus aids in giving you more pep and lessens distress from female functional disorders.

You'll find Pinkham's Compound WELL WORTH TRYING!

Triplets Share Basket

Olympia, Wash., Feb. 20 (AP)—

Triplets born Saturday to Mr. and Mrs. Joe Lavery of Friendly Grove shared a big clothes basket in their home until the Red Cross came to the family's aid today and supplied two extra baskets. The babies, Dr. H. W. Sachs said, all are luscious and "doing splendidly." Roberta weighed 5 pounds at birth and her two brothers, Delbert and Albert, 5½ and 6 pounds, respectively. The Laverys, each 34, have five other children.

Dinner For Three Or Four

Sauces: Cream-Cheese Sauce, Tossed Fruit and Green Salad, Bread, Orange Marmalade, Cherry Pie, Coffee for Adults, Milk for Children

Spanish Omelet Bettina

4 egg yolks, ¼ cup boiling water, ½ teaspoon salt, ½ teaspoon paprika, 1 teaspoon minced onions, 2 teaspoons minced green peppers, 1 teaspoon minced parsley, 4 egg whites, beaten, 2 tablespoons butter, ¼ cup catsup

Beat yolks. Add water, salt, paprika, onions, peppers and parsley. Lightly fold in whites and pour into butter which has been heated in a large frying pan. (Iron preferred.) Cover and cook over low heat until omelet is puffy on top and well browned underneath. (About ten minutes.) Spread quickly with catsup and fold half over. Bake five minutes in a slow oven. Carefully turn onto heated platter. Surround with cream-cheese sauce and garnish with cress or parsley.

Pie Crust

¼ cups flour, ¼ teaspoon salt, ¼ cup fat

Mix flour and salt together in a bowl. Cut in fat with two knives until mixture resembles coarse corn meal. Be careful not to make too fine. Slowly add water until stiff dough forms. Press into a ball. Break off two-thirds of the dough and roll out. Fit into a pie pan. Fill with cherries. Cover with rest of dough. Bake ten minutes in a moderately hot oven. Lower heat and bake 40 minutes. Serve warm or cold.

Cherries

8 cups seeded tart cherries, 5 tablespoons flour, ¼ teaspoon cinnamon

½ teaspoon salt, 1 cup granulated sugar, 2 tablespoons butter

Thoroughly blend the ingredients and pour into unbaked crust.

Lehman Denies Report

New York, Feb. 20 (AP)—Gov. Herbert H. Lehman said last night that a radio report (Walter Winchell—NBC) of a rumor that his doctor had ordered him to resign after a trip in June was "the most ridiculous statement I've ever heard of." "I've never been in better health," the governor said. "I haven't seen a doctor in months. And I have no intention or expectation of doing so."

3 Hurt Slightly

In Two-Car Crash

ley conditions of the road are claimed to have been the cause of the collision between a truck of the Ustersdorf Farms of Highland and a sedan at the intersection of Smith avenue and O'Neil street shortly after 7 o'clock Sunday morning in which three men were slightly injured, and both cars damaged.

The truck was being operated by Jay Ford Delamater of Ravena,

while James W. Hart of Bedford,

Mass., was driving the Ford sedan and riding with him was E. J.

Ledger of Greenfield, Mass., owner of the car. Both are employed by a tree surgery concern.

Mr. Hart in reporting the accident to the police department stated that he saw the stop sign at the intersection and applied his brakes, but owing to the icy condition of the road his Ford

skidded into the intersection and the crash occurred.

Mr. Delamater suffered on injured left knee, while Mr. Hart was cut over the right eye, and

Mr. Ledger suffered a wrenched right arm and shoulder.

Pre-Natal Talks Given

At Child Hygiene Bureau

A series of talks on the necessity and value of adequate maternity care are being given at the Bureau of Child Hygiene on East

O'Reilly street. These talks are being given to a group of NYA girls and others interested.

The first of the series was given last week when "What Good Prenatal Care Consists Of" was discussed. The second in the series of talks will be given Tuesday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at the bureau. The subject will be

"The Need of an Adequate Diet

During the Pre-natal Period for the Growth and Development of a Well Baby."

Queen Approves

London, Feb. 20 (AP)—Queen

Elizabeth today approved Prime Minister Chamberlain's famous un-derella as a "symbol of peace."

"That's a splendid idea," she said when shown a replica of Chamberlain's umbrella during a visit to the British Industries fair.

WHERE EIGHT DIED IN FIRE

Fire all but wiped out the family of Ed Hansborough, 40, carpenter, when the roof collapsed and caught him and seven of his eight children in their home at Manassas, Va. Mrs. Hansborough escaped with the youngest child, John, 2. Two neighbors are examining the smoldering ruins of the carpenter's house which became a flaming funeral pyre for most of his family.

What Is Your News I. Q.?

By The AP Feature Service

Each question counts 20; each part of a two-part question, 10. A score of 60 is fair, 80, good.

1. What does Gustave Blair

became of Charley Ross, victim of famous kidnapping case in 1874?

2. Are "askmarks" (a) a type of German money, (b) designs

in writing paper, or (c) ratings for skiers?

3. What new baby is directly in line for two lost thrones?

4. Locate Hainan and tell how it got into the news.

5. Who is the homeless new visiting professor at Chicago

ONLY HIS MOTHER LEFT

Of his seven brothers and sisters and their parents only his mother, was left to two-year-old Johnny Hansborough, whose father and the seven children were burned to death in their home at Manassas, Va. Here Blackie, the family dog, also a survivor, seems to be offering his sympathy as Johnny sits on the lap of his aunt, Mrs. Elizabeth Martin, of Arlington, Va.

FRANCE TIGHTENS HOLD

France made her first major move in her dispute with Italy over the East African possessions of Somaliland by reoccupying 12½ miles of coastline and 208.8 square miles of hinterland ceded to Italy in 1935. Map shows the disputed region which overlooks the strategic passageway between the Red Sea and Gulf of Aden.

Czechoslovakia.

American Cardinals Impart Absolution

Vatican City, Feb. 20 (AP)—George Cardinal Mundelein of Chicago and Denis Cardinal Dougherty of Philadelphia imparted absolution at the last of the nine funeral Masses sung for Pius XI in St. Peter's this morning.

The solemn ceremonies also ended week-end funeral services by the cardinals who now have eight days to consider their preferences before they go into conclave February 28 to elect a new pope.

At the Vatican, it was learned a telegram of condolence on behalf of the Madrid Spanish premier, Juan Negri, was received without acknowledgment. The Vatican newspaper Osservatore Romano recently criticized treatment of Catholics in the Spanish civil war.

Cardinals Dougherty and Mundelein arrived Saturday for the papal conclave.

A study of fatalities in motor accidents in cities reveals that 61 per cent of those who lost their lives were pedestrians.
